

ADAS Health and Safety Policy

Promoting a healthy and safe working environment

ADAS aims to provide and promote, as far as is reasonably practicable, a healthy and safe working environment for all employees, contractors, visitors and others who may be affected by our working activities.

Our procedures detail specific requirements for managing health and safety and our policy is to always work to the principles in the HSE's 'Successful Management of Health and Safety' (contained in HS(G) 65).

Our objectives involve:

- Coherent management of health and safety, maximising the contribution of individuals and groups through their active participation.
- Effective communication of relevant information and instructions on occupational health and safety.
- Managing occupational health and safety through key personnel.
- Supervision, training and teaching of staff, enabling all staff to make an informed and responsible contribution to the health and safety effort and thereby promoting competence in safe systems of work.
- Producing site-specific local health and safety policies, emergency plans and risk assessments.
- Using formal risk assessment and subsequent control of hazards during client contract delivery to ensure the occupational health and safety of staff, contractors and visitors.
- Using a member of staff with a NEBOSH National General Certificate qualification to assist and advise colleagues in the successful management of occupational health and safety throughout the implementation of these objectives.
- Monitoring health and safety performance and reporting to senior management.
- Evaluating the success of the overall health and safety policy and ensuring that any revisions are promptly brought to the attention of all staff.

As Managing Director I have ultimate responsibility for occupational health and safety in ADAS and I am committed to ADAS realising these objectives. Assisting me in this process are:

- Ross Chattaway (NEBOSH), RSK Group Safety, Health, Environment and Quality Director.
- Senior managers, who are required to make arrangements to ensure the health and safety of their staff whilst at work and that of visitors to our premises.

This Policy Statement is made available to all staff via the ADAS Intranet and brought to their attention by being placed on notice boards at all ADAS office locations. Staff are reminded of their responsibility to co-operate and take an active part on health and safety matters. This is particularly important for field based staff, many of whom manage their own health and safety on a daily basis.
